

How does MyQ work?

- Recent graduates (who have completed a TEC funded qualification more than 6 months ago and within 3 years) complete the MyQ survey online to provide feedback about their qualification and how well it prepared them for work and employment/career aspirations.
- As MyQ is an independent survey it gives graduates the opportunity to share information about their qualification honestly. All graduate's personal details are kept confidential and results shared with TEOs are anonymised.
- The survey is a quick process it takes about 3 minutes to complete. It consists of asking a few straightforward questions to check the graduates' details to validate the qualification, information about how well the qualification prepared them for work and career development, employment status and overall satisfaction information about their qualification.
- MyQ results are published on the Careers NZ website once the minimum response rate for each qualification has been achieved as per any standard survey validation. The more surveys that are completed by graduates, the more chances we have of achieving the response rates so this information can be shared.
- The results published will state the TEO /qualification level and will be aggregated with a percentage rate in relation to each particular survey question asked.
